1 Megane-bashi

One of Japan's largest stepped, stone double-arch bridges, built in the Edo period. It was the first stone bridge in Japan to be designated an Important Cultural Property.

2 Eel

Isahaya's famous eel. Isahaya-style kabayaki is steamed in a double-bottomed Raku-yaki ceramic bowl, creating a wonderfully plump, melt-in-your-mouth texture.

3 Nabeshima-tei

A residence built on the former headquarters site of the Nabeshima clan, lords of the Kojiro domain of Saga during the Edo period, in Kunimi, Unzen City. In 2007, it was designated a National Important Cultural Property.

4 Ōmisaki Station

Shimabara Railway's closest station to the sea in Japan. The blue sea, blue sky, and bright yellow handkerchiefs make it a beloved photo spot.

5 Shimabara Castle

Shimabara-jo Castle was built starting in 1618 by Matsukura Bungo-no-kami Shigemasa, over about seven years. The main keep was reconstructed in 1964.

6 Shimabara Peninsula Martyrs Memorial Church

A church built in memory of Christians who were martyred across the Shimabara Peninsula between 1612 and 1658.

7 Koi no Oyogu-machi

Shimabara City is rich in spring water. In this area, a 100-meter waterway runs through town—hence the nickname, the Town Where the Koi Swim.

8 Guzoni

Shimabara's zoni soup is famously hearty. Guzoni soup is said to have begun during the Shimabara-Amakusa Rebellion, when people combined mochi with ingredients from both mountain and sea.

9 Tenobe somen

Shimabara produces about 30 percent of Japan's hand-stretched somen. It holds its texture well after boiling, with a satisfying texture.

10 Hara Castle Ruins

The site of Hara Castle, a key stage of the Shimabara-Amakusa Rebellion. It is one of the component sites of the UNESCO World Cultural Heritage Hidden Christian Sites in the Nagasaki Region.

11 Dolphin Watching

About 200 wild dolphins live year-round in the Hayasaki Strait. You can see them year-round.

12 Obama Champon

Said to be one of Japan's three great champon styles. Packed with seafood and vegetables, with an optional egg topping.

13 Hot Foot 105

Japan's longest footbath facility, stretching 105 meters, named after Obama Onsen's 105°C source temperature.

14 Unzen Onsen Seiunso

Unzen Onsen is known for its hot springs which have beautifying effects. Every bath is fed directly from the source, and meals featuring seasonal farm and marine specialties of the Shimabara Peninsula are also recommended.
